1	Defendant, Motorola Mobility LLC, formerly known as Motorola Mobility, Inc. ¹
2	("Motorola"), files the following answer and affirmative defenses in response to the Confidential
3	Second Amended Complaint ("Complaint") filed by plaintiffs, Apple Inc. and Apple Sales
4	International (collectively "Apple"). The numbered paragraphs in the Answer correspond to the
5	like-numbered paragraphs of the Complaint, to the extent possible. Any factual allegation
6	admitted below is admitted only as to the specific admitted facts, and not as to any purported
7	conclusions, characterizations, or implications that may allegedly follow from the admitted facts.
8	Motorola denies that Apple is entitled to the relief requested or any other relief.
9	ANSWER TO COMPLAINT
10	GENERAL DENIAL
11	Unless expressly admitted below, Motorola denies each and every allegation Apple has
12	made in the Complaint.
13	RESPONSE TO APPLE'S SPECIFIC ALLEGATIONS
14	Motorola answers the allegations in the separately numbered paragraphs of Apple's
15	Complaint as follows:
16	PARTIES ²
17	1. Motorola lacks information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations of
18	Paragraph 1 and, on that basis, denies same.
19	2. Motorola lacks knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the
20	allegations that Plaintiff Apple Sales International is an unlimited company organized under the
21	laws of the Republic of Ireland in Paragraph 2 and therefore denies same. Motorola admits the
22	remaining allegations in Paragraph 2.
23
24	¹ Apple filed its original Complaint and its First Amended Complaint in this action against Motorola Mobility, Inc. On June 22, 2012, Motorola Mobility, Incorporated obtained a
25	Certificate of Conversion from the Delaware Department of State, Division of Corporations, in which Motorola Mobility, Inc. was converted to Motorola Mobility LLC. Apple filed its Second
26	Amended Complaint against Motorola Mobility LLC.
27	² To the extent that any of the headings Apple used in its Second Amended Complaint contain any allegations or characterizations, Motorola denies the truth of those allegations or characterizations.

2	JURISDICTION AND VENUE
3	4. Motorola denies that this action, as pled, is a proper action for declaratory and
4	injunctive relief arising under Title 35 of the United States Code. Motorola denies that this
5	Court has subject matter jurisdiction over Apple's claims pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331,
6	1338(a), 1367, 2201, and 2202. Motorola admits that this is an action among diverse parties but
7	denies that the amount in controversy as a result of Apple's claims exceeds the sum or value of
8	$75,000. Motorola denies all remaining allegations of Paragraph 4.
9	5. Motorola admits this Court has personal jurisdiction over Motorola for the 10	purposes of this case only. Motorola denies all remaining allegations of Paragraph 5.
11	6. Motorola admits that venue is proper under 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b) and (c), but
12	denies that venue is proper pursuant to
13	Motorola denies all
14	remaining allegations of Paragraph 6.
15	I. APPLE'S ALLEGATIONS REGARDING NATURE OF THE ACTION
16	7. Motorola admits that Apple alleges this is a lawsuit for anticipatory breach of
17	contract by repudiation and declaratory relief related to Motorola's certain license agreements
18	with Qualcomm, but Motorola specifically denies that it committed any breach and that Apple is
19	entitled to any declaratory relief. Motorola admits that Motorola Inc. entered a license
20	agreement with Qualcomm and that interests of Motorola Inc. in that agreement have been
21	assigned to Motorola. Motorola admits that it sued Apple Sales International and Apple Inc. in
22	separate actions in the Mannheim District Court in the Federal Republic of Germany, claiming
23	infringement of Motorola's European Patent No. 1 010 336 ("the '336 patent"), a foreign
24	counterpart to the '898 patent, by Apple mobile communications devices because they
25	incorporate functionality defined in part by the European Telecommunications Standards
26	Institute's ("ETSI's") GPRS standard. Apple's iPhone 4S is compliant with the GPRS standard,
27	and therefore became an accused product in the ASI Mannheim proceeding and subject to the

1	Mannheim Court's injunctive order entered December 9, 2011. Motorola admits that the
2	question of liability is no longer an issue in Germany because Apple has voluntarily
3	acknowledged its liability for past damages even though, technically, the issue of liability with
4	regard to infringement of the '336 patent is still pending before the Karlsruhe Court. Motorola
5	admits that the parties continue to litigate in the future the amount of damages Apple must pay
6	Motorola for the past infringement and the amount of a FRAND license. Motorola admits that
7	Apple has brought the present case but specifically denies that the counts in the case are well
8	founded or that Apple is entitled to the relief that it requests. Motorola denies all remaining
9	allegations of Paragraph 7. ³
10
11	II. APPLE'S ALLEGATIONS REGARDING MOTOROLA'S LICENSE WITH QUALCOMM

12	8.	Motorola admits that Motorola, Inc. entered an agreement and amendments with
13	Qualcomm	, but Motorola otherwise denies any attempt to characterize iPhone 4S was not on sale in Germany at the time Motorola Mobility, Inc. filed its complaint in the ASI Mannheim Action. Motorola denies that the Apple iPhone 4S is not an accused product in the ASI Mannheim Action, because the accused devices in the ASI Mannheim Action are Apple's GPRS-enabled devices. Those devices include the iPhone 4S which, upon information and belief, was first sold in Germany in October of 2011, during the pendency of the ASI Mannheim Action. Motorola denies all remaining allegations of Paragraph 37.

38. Admitted.

8 39. Motorola admits that on December 14, 2011, Apple Sales International appealed 9 the December 9, 2011 Order of the Mannheim District Court to the Higher Regional Court in 10 Karlsruhe. Motorola admits that on December 14, 2011, Apple Sales International filed with the 11 Mannheim District Court a Request for Suspension of Enforcement of the Mannheim District 12 Court's December 9, 2011 Order. Motorola denies that Apple's appeal was immediate and 13 denies all remaining allegations of Paragraph 39.

40. Motorola admits that on January 12, 2012, it submitted a Reply to Request for Stay to the Higher Regional Court of Karlsruhe stating that Apple's iPhone 4S was subject to the Mannheim District Court's cease and desist order. Motorola denies any allegation that the iPhone 4S was not at issue in the ASI Mannheim Action and denies all remaining allegations of Paragraph 40.

41. Motorola admits that in the Mannheim ASI Action, Motorola alleged that all of the mobile communication devices of Apple Sales International that support the GPRS standard, including the iPhone 4S infringed the '336 patent. Motorola admits that the '336 patent has been declared to ETSI as essential to the GPRS standard. Motorola denies all remaining allegations of Paragraph 41.

42. Motorola admits that, in its decision of January 23, 2012, the Higher Regional Court of Karlsruhe declined to stay the Mannheim District Court's cease and desist order in response to Apple Sales International's Request for Suspension, but Motorola denies any attempt to characterize or explain the basis for that Court's decision and denies all remaining allegations

10 48. Motorola admits that Apple has made offers to license Motorola's declared 11 cellular standards-essential patents. Motorola is without sufficient information to form a belief 12 as to the truth or falsity of the remaining allegations of the first sentence in Paragraph 28 and 13 therefore denies same. The Higher Regional Court of Karlsruhe has not made a final 14 determination regarding whether Apple's FRAND offer is valid, an allegation that has been 15 mooted by Motorola's acceptance of the offer after Apple admitted liability for past damages for 16 infringement, and on those bases, Motorola denies the allegations of the second sentence of 17 Paragraph 48. Motorola admits that the question of liability is no longer an issue in Germany 18 because Apple has voluntarily acknowledged its liability for past damages even though this issue 19 is pending before the Karlsruhe appellate court regarding ASI's liability for infringement of the 20 '336 patent. Motorola admits that the parties will continue to litigate in the future the amount of 21 damages Apple must pay Motorola for the past infringement and the amount of a FRAND 22 license. Motorola denies the remaining allegations of Paragraph 48.

originally filed by Apple on October 29, 2010 in the Western District of Wisconsin, case no.
 3:10-cv-662, and transferred to the Northern District of Illinois from that court on December 1, 2011. Motorola admits that Motorola included, in its Answer to Apple's Complaint, a counterclaim for infringement of U.S. Patent No. 6,359,898 by Apple Inc. Motorola denies all remaining allegations of Paragraph 49.

50. Motorola admits that Motorola did not accuse Apple's iPhone 4S, the new iPad, or Apple's use of Qualcomm's MDM6610 or other Qualcomm components in those or other Apple products of infringing the '898 patent in Apple Inc., et al. v. Motorola, Inc., et al., case number 1:11-cv-08540, before the United States District Court for the Northern District of Illinois. Motorola denies all remaining allegations of Paragraph 50.

11 51. Motorola admits that Motorola and Apple entered into an agreement with respect
12 only to the cited Illinois case, but Motorola denies any attempt to partially quote or characterize 13 that agreement and denies all remaining allegations of Paragraph 51.

Motorola admits that on January 23, 2012, it filed a brief, written in the German language, in the Higher District Court of Karlsruhe in the Federal Republic of Germany, in which the subject matter of the purportedly translated, quoted text in Paragraph 54 was addressed. Motorola denies the accuracy of the translation and denies any attempt to characterize Motorola's statements and therefore denies the remaining allegations of Paragraph 54.

55. Motorola admits that Apple's outside counsel made an inquiry of Motorola's outside counsel on March 27, 2012 as to whether Motorola would enter a stipulation not to sue Apple. Motorola denies all remaining allegations of Paragraph 55.

7	positions as the case proceeds and facts develop.
8 9	FIRST AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE (Laches)
10	Apple's claims are barred in whole or in part by the equitable doctrine of laches.
11	SECOND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE (Waiver)
12	Apple's claims are barred in whole or in part by the equitable doctrine of waiver.
13 14	THIRD AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE (Equitable Estoppel)
14	Apple's claims are barred in whole or in part by the doctrine of equitable estoppel.
16	FOURTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE (Acquiescence)
17	Apple's claims are barred in whole or in part by the equitable doctrine of acquiescence.
18 19	FIFTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE (Unclean Hands)
20	Apple's claims are barred in whole or in part by the equitable doctrine of unclean hands.
21	SIXTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE (Judicial Estoppel)
22	Apple is judicially estopped from proceeding with its claims because of conflicting
23	positions taken in litigation against Motorola in other courts and administrative proceedings.
24	SEVENTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE (Apple is Not a Third Party Beneficiary)
25	Apple's claims are barred because Apple is not a third party beneficiary to any contract
26	described in Apple's Complaint.

¢	ase 3:12-cv-00355-BEN-BLM Document 75 Filed 08/27/12 Page 15 of 18
1	EIGHTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE (No Injunctive Relief)
2	Apple is not entitled to injunctive relief because any alleged injury to Apple is not
3	immediate or irreparable, Apple has adequate remedies at law, the balance of hardships does not
4	favor Apple over Motorola, and the public interest does not favor an injunction.
5 6	NINTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE (Lack of Standing and Capacity to Sue)
7	At the time of filing its complaint, Apple was an improper party and lacked standing and
8	capacity to sue.
9 10	TENTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE (Caused Own Damages and Failure to Mitigate)
11	To the extent that Apple suffered injury alleged in the complaint, Apple caused or
12	contributed to its own damages or loss and failed to mitigate its damages.
13	ELEVENTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE (Res Judicata and Collateral Estoppel)
14	Apple's claims and/or some of the underlying factual or legal issues it seeks to prove in
15	support of its claims are barred by the doctrines of res judicata and/or collateral estoppel to the
16	extent that such issues were litigated and decided in other suits or administrative proceedings
17	between or involving Apple and Motorola.
18 19	TWELFTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE (Failure to State a Claim Upon Which Relief Can Be Granted)
20	Apple has failed to state a claim against Motorola upon which relief may be granted.
21	THIRTEENTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE (No Breach of Contract)
22	Apple's claims are barred as Motorola has not breached any contract described in
23	Apple's complaint.
24 25	FOURTEENTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE (Effective Termination of Apple's Rights)
26	Apple's claims are barred, as Motorola effectively terminated any rights held by Apple
27	under the Qualcomm-Motorola Agreements and any rights allegedly held by Qualcomm as
28	applied to Apple in its status as a Qualcomm customer.

	FIFTEENTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE (No License)
2	Apple's iPhone 4S is not shielded by virtue of license or otherwise from assertion of the '898 patent.
	SIXTEENTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE (No License)
	Apple's use and incorporation of the Qualcomm MDM6610 chip in Apple products is not shielded by virtue of licenses or otherwise from assertions of Motorola's GSM Essential Patents, as that term is defined in the September 30, 2006 Amendment.
	SEVENTEENTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE (Motorola's Patent Rights Are Not Exhausted)
	Motorola's patent rights in the Qualcomm MDM6610 chip under Motorola's Patents, Motorola's Essential Patents, and Motorola's GSM Essential Patents, to the extent implicated in the MDM6610 chip, are not exhausted outside of Germany.
	EIGHTEENTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE (Denial of Discretionary Relief)
	The Court should exercise its discretion to not hear Apple's claims seeking declaratory relief and to not grant any declaratory relief.
	NINETEENTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE (Reservation of Remaining Defenses)
	Motorola reserves all affirmative defenses under Rule 8(c) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, the Patent Laws of the United States, and any other defenses, at law or in equity, that may now exist or in the future be available based on discovery and further factual investigation in this case.
	DEMAND FOR JURY TRIAL
	Pursuant to Rule 38(b) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Motorola demands a trial by jury on Apple's claims and Motorola's defenses.

1	REQUEST FOR RELIEF
2	WHEREFORE, Motorola prays that this Court enter judgment and provide relief as
3	follows:
4	a. Judgment be entered that Apple take nothing by reason of the Complaint and that
5	the Complaint be dismissed with prejudice;
6	b. Judgment be entered that this is an exceptional case entitling Motorola to an
7	award of its attorneys' fees for Motorola's defense against Apple's Complaint, together with pre-
8	judgment and post-judgment interest, and costs of the action, pursuant to 35 U.S.C. §285; and
9	c. Judgment be entered awarding Motorola such other and further relief as this Court
10	may deem just and proper.
